Handmade

If there is anything 17 years of experience has taught us, it is that quality comes from the human touch. Hands have the power to transfer a design vision into a comfortable experience like no other tool. They make fabric fold and stretch just the way it should. And in their touch lies the final approval before we send a new sofa off for delivery.

From one pair of hands to another. That's not to say we never use technology—but it's always as a tool, never as a replacement for the person operating it. At sits every member of our staff is a key player because everyone contributes to making our furniture what it is. That's why we give our staff the best working conditions. Having a human touch in everything we do simply makes our products better.
